Literature Changes The Mind Of The Society : Dr. Krishna Gopal

Vidya Bharati Sanskriti Shiksha Sansthan Releases 21 Books and Honours Litterateurs

Kurukshetra, 27 February

21 books were released and literary awards given by Vidya Bharati Sanskriti Shiksha Sansthan. The authors of the books were honored with 'Sanskriti Bhawan-Sahitya Seva Samman'. Dr. Krishna Gopal, Saha Sarkaryavah of Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh was the keynote speaker and Dr. Govind Prasad Sharma, President, National Book Trust, New Delhi was the chief guest in the program. Dr. Bina Sharma, director of Kendriya Hindi Sansthan, Agra, presided. Dr. Lalit Bihari Goswami, President of Vidya Bharti Sanskriti Shiksha Sansthan, Sri Dusi Ramakrishna Rao, President of Vidya Bharti Akhil Bhartiya Shiksha Sansthan and Secretary of the Sansthan - Sri Avnish Bhatnagar, were also on the stage. Sri Bhatnagar gave a brief introduction of the books that were released. The program was conducted by the Director of the Sansthan, Dr. Ramendra Singh. Sri Durg Singh Rajpurohit, the convener of the Sanskriti Bodh project, introduced the guests.

Dr. Krishna Gopal said that literature changes the psyche of the society. Today interest in reading literature is decreasing. The home library is shrinking. Now people do not build libraries at home. Writers used to write literature telling the depths of man. There was a purpose behind every story. Premchand used to live in mysticism, but the story was written in a way that it gave a direction to the society. Stories, songs, poems, articles were meant to increase the depths of human conscience. Today people are even forgetting the names of those great writers. The habit of reading is getting lost. For this it is necessary that at least one library should be built in all homes. Some time of your day must be devoted to read books.

Explaining the meaning of the verse "Sa Vidya Ya Vimuktaye", he said that craft binds a person and vidya liberates. As a person becomes self-centred, he gets tied up and as he decentralises, he gets opened. Salvation is in being decentralized.

Dr. Lalit Bihari Goswami, President of the Vidya Bharati Sanskriti Shiksha Sansthan expressed his thanks to all. On this occasion, field coordinators from many states across the country, besides writers, Organizing Secretary - Sri J.M. Kashipathi of Vidya Bharati Shiksha Shiksha Sansthan, National General Secretary- Sri Shriram Aravkar, National Secretary Sri Shivkumar, Vidya Bharati Uttar Kshetra, Vice President - Sri Surendra Attri, Jt. centred, he gets tied up and as he decentralises, he gets opened. Salvation is in being decentralized. The depths of the heart within man are what centralizes man. The texts are the content of the decentralization within man. He said that books give knowledge. Knowledge gives wisdom to a person. Conscience tells what is causal and what is not.

Chief guest Dr. Govind Prasad Sharma said that books create an alternative to knowledge. Books have a great place in the society. Books refine the idea of making a person superior. Expressing grief over not studying books, he said that the interest in reading books is decreasing in the new generation. But the idea of being continuously engaged in publication work by Vidya Bharati Sanskriti Shiksha Sansthan is commendable. To keep the nature of reading books alive, then it is very important to come up with new books. Otherwise our interests, our knowledge will go on becoming limited.

Presiding over, Dr. Bina Sharma speaking on the lack of it and they will also develop interest in reading. It is true that the corner which used to be full of books, today it is filled with modern resources and gifts. Whatever our material progress may have been due to this, but they have lagged far behind in terms of spirituality.

At the end of the program,

Pankaj Sharma, Treasurer of the Vidya Bharati Sanskriti Shiksha Sansthan, UIET Director C.C. Tripathi, Controller of University Examination Dr. Hukam Singh, Jai Bhagwan Singla, Hari Singh, Harikesh Paposa, Including, C D S Kaushal, many dignitaries of the city were present.

spirituality. Students are encouraged to participate in several academic, musical and sporting events which are organized by Vidya Bharati at state and national levels.

Sarada Sishu Teertha, Sevoke Road is not just a school like any other; it is a centre for social change. While imparting education, the teachers also guide students towards a spiritual and value added future. Surrounded by several convent schools within close proximity, this school continues to instil an education beyond textbooks and take students towards an excellent all-round development through sports, music, creativity and Sarada Sishu Teertha, Sevoke Road started operating in 1993 with one classroom and grew to 40+ classrooms within years with facilities such as library, prayer room, common room, computer room, and sports ground. Currently there are 900+ students studying in the school. The school also offers a bus service so that students from faraway places can also reach school easily.

The teachers take extra care in shaping the morals of the students from the very beginning. Sri Kanti Nirbhoy Ghosh, the principal of the school said, “It is these young students who are the future of the country. Our motto is to develop each student in such a way so that they grow up to become chief instruments in taking our country forward”.

Vidya Bharati Alumni From Assam, Diganta Sarma Shares How Working In Social Service Sector Proved To Be One Of His Greatest Experiences

"Education is incomplete without experience" - It is with this mindset that Vidya Bharati Alumni, Diganta Sarma, took a break after higher education to work for an NGO providing education to children in the island district of Majuli, Assam.

A brief extract of his interview with Vidya Bharati Purv Chatra Parishad, alumni portal team is given below:

Interviewer: Can you tell us about your academic and professional journey so far?

Diganta: I have studied in Shankardev Sishu Niketan, Patacharkuchi. I have done graduation in English Literature from Gauhati University and post graduation in the same subject from Bodoland University (2018).

After completion of my higher education I took a gap year of 1 year and joined Ayang Trust for two years under its fellowship program.

Interviewer: What inspired you to take up fellowship under an NGO and how was your experience there?

Diganta: After completion of my higher studies, I somehow felt that my education was incomplete. I felt the urge to experience more. I have always wanted to do more for our society and when I got the chance to do a fellowship programme under Ayang Trust, I grabbed the opportunity.

Experience wise, it is one of the best decisions that I have taken. Ayang Trust works in three sectors: Education, Health and Livelihood. My work was under the education division which helped in promotion of better education and build educational infrastructure in remotely located schools. For two years I worked in Majuli, Assam, which is one of the largest island districts in the world. The people of this island mostly belong to different tribes and depend on agriculture for their livelihood. During this time I got to work at the grassroots level and connect with a wide range of people.

Interviewer: How was your experience under Vidya Bharati school?

Diganta: Vidya Bharati school is quite different from any conventional school. Here discipline, morality, respect and Indian culture is given equal importance as to academics. I feel that all these aspects are necessary for overall development of the personality.

Interviewer: Would you like to share any message with the Vidya Bharati students?

Diganta: The only message that I would like to share with the students is that they should try and lead a disciplined life. It would surely help them in the future.

Vaidehi Thacker, A Vidya Bharati Alumni, Promoting Handicrafts Of Gujarat

Handicraft reflects the individualities of a civilization and expresses the psychological vibrations of the creators. Handicraft artists are the silent spokespersons of cultural treasures of any community or nation. Indian handicrafts are famous worldwide since centuries and Gujarat, especially, has a tremendous treasure of distinctive handicrafts. Vaidehi Thacker, a Vidya Bharati Alumni, is promoting the handicrafts of Gujarat through her work by supporting artists to sell their products.

Vaidehi is an alumna of Shree Sahayog Sarasvati Vidya Mandir – Gandhidham, where she studied till 12th standard. After completing her schooling, she pursued a B.Com degree; post which she did a Certification Course in Library Science.

Vaidehi's strong attachment with her school took her back to serve her school again. For the next 7 years she was doing Seva Karya at her school where he taught music, arranged cultural programs, managed office work and the school library.

"I could never part from my school. Everything I have learned there, has helped me to shape my life", mentioned Vaidehi, who is now serving Vidya Bharati as Purv Chatra Pramukh (Alumni coordinator) from Kachchh.

Vaidehi also runs an initiative through which she promotes handicrafts from Kachchh and helps several artisans to sell their products.

"Gujarat is a land of art and craft. A great range of ethnic communities live in this region who have been maintaining traditional culture in the form of handicrafts", mentioned Vaidehi.

Kachchh is famous for its handicrafts, hills, white deserts, beautiful virgin sea beaches, various forts and above all Dholaveera, one of the five largest Harappan sites and among the most prominent archaeological sites in India belonging to the Indus Valley Civilization. Till today some of the Kachchhi motifs can be traced to the ancient Harappan civilization.

"Kutch is a treasure chest like no other, where each village has a different compartment of delights. Embroidery has become a craft synonymous with Kachchh and is world renowned for its mirrored embroideries. The other popular handicrafts include Ajrakh prints, Block prints, Bandhani and Batik prints", shared Vaidehi, who sources these products directly from artisans and sells them through her Facebook and Instagram pages.

She started promoting and selling these products to her friends, family and neighborhood first. Gradually she started reaching out to people through social media. Currently she had around 12 people in her team.
